

Indigenous Self-Identification Form for Application Purpose

Name

Context

CIHR defines Indigenous Health Research as any field or discipline related to health and/or wellness that is conducted by, grounded in, or engaged with, First Nations, Inuit, Métis or Urban Indigenous communities, societies or individuals and their wisdom, cultures, experiences or knowledge systems, as expressed in their dynamic forms, past and present. Therefore, applicants are asked to either self-identify as Indigenous (First Nations, Inuit or Métis) or to provide evidence of having meaningful and culturally safe research involvement with Indigenous Peoples.

Data will not be used for statistical or reporting purpose.

Do you identify as an Indigenous person in Canada; that is First Nation, Inuk (Inuit), or Métis?

Please select an answer from the drop-down options:

Please describe your experience of meaningful and culturally safe research involvement with Indigenous Peoples. If you do not have this experience, please describe how you plan to engage in meaningful and culturally safe research with Indigenous Peoples. (Continue on page 2 if needed)
